

HOW TO DO SPACE AGE WORK WITH A STONE AGE BRAIN™

Is trying to get more done with less getting to your team, too?

Technology alone doesn't increase productivity – but your people can. Eve Abbott, the Organizer Extraordinaire shares new discoveries about the human brain so your team can take advantage of their unique hard-wiring to get better results, with less stress. This interactive program is loaded with proven e-mail tips that your whole team will use to save an hour a day to put back into e-mails, phone calls and just plain old work!

Join the Organizer Extraordinaire for a Personal Performance Tune Up:

- Get a real edge up and over brain-based misunderstandings in all your business and personal communications; especially e-mail.
- Master e-mail tips that will save you an hour a day: so you can invest more time in keeping your customers (and boss!) happy.
- Discover your personal best brain-style (Visual, Auditory & Kinetic) and greatly reduce visual and mental fatigue (and mistakes) while computing

Ms. Abbott's clients range from S. C. Johnson & Son, Inc. to Hewlett Packard and include Nixon Peabody, LLP and Bank of America as well as countless professionals.

"I've always thought I was organized - until I came to this event. The 'task folder' tip alone will be of great help!"

Mary Anne Wood, Manager, Safeway

Contact us when you are ready for each person on your staff to put 20 hours more each month into their jobs: without you spending more on technology or them working longer days!

About Eve Abbott, Author, Speaker & Consultant

Since 1988, Eve Abbott has been the only consultant developing unique brain-based productivity systems for executives, managers and business owners so their teams can work at least 25% more effectively through her lively programs and hands-on consultations.

Ms. Abbott is the author of, How to Do Space Age Work with a Stone Age Brain™ (2005). She took her degree in Sociology and Psychology from the University of California and holds a Lifetime Adult Teaching Credential. The Organizer Extraordinaire is a popular guest on TV and Radio and appears in Home Office Computing and Working Women magazines, and The New York Times.